Circuit Court.

Thursday p. m., April 12.—At the close of the argument in the Malloy case the jury was instructed by the Court and retired at about two o'clock in charge of a sworn officer.

In the case of the Town of Alto vs. John Dunn, assumpsit, the defendant was called and judgement was rendered against the defendant on affidavit of merits for $577.28, and for costs of suit.

The appeal case of A. F. Buck vs. Norman Hausen was next taken up, and a jury selected and sworn to answer questions and try the case. The case being stated by the council, the following witnesses were sworn and examined on the part of the plaintiff: A. F. Buck, Andrew Clutz, Benny Buck and John Mong.

Court then appointed a recess until 8 o'clock p. m; but as the jury on the Malloy case had not come to decision by that time court adjourned until morning.

Friday a. m. April 13.—The grand jury return into court with eleven indictments, one for larceny, one for malicious mischief and nine for selling liquor to minors. The jury present their report upon the condition of the jail, etc., which is filed and approved. They were then discharged for the term.

Report of grand jury on jail and premises is as follows: "To His Honor, the Court,—The grand jury now in session, after visiting the Lee county jail and premises, report the finding of everything in good condition and have no recommendations to make. Dixon, April 12, 1894. Silas Ackert, Foreman."

The trial of Buck vs Hausen is resumed. A. F. Buck is recalled and Andrew Clutz and Mr. Shoemaker examined for the plaintiff. The plaintiff then rests his case and the following are sworn for the defendant: Norman Hausen, A. B Hoff and Silas A. Yingling.

—The attendance at the performance of the Brown Co. has been on the increase since the opening night, which demonstrates that the company is gaining favor with each performance. Tonight they present the Madison Square success, "The Private Secretary." Don't forget the matinee tomorrow afternoon by Brown's Comedy Co. at the opera house. Admission 10 and 20 cents. Every child receives a handsome souvenir present. Let the little ones go and enjoy themselves at the old times circus and see the elephant.

—There is a possibility of Dixon getting a first-class bicycle manufacturing company to locate in Dixon. The demand for wheels, like that for musical instruments, is continually on the increase, and it is liable to keep in advance of the supply for many years. The institution referred to employs more than one hundred skilled workmen earning large wages, which, if located here, would mean an addition of nearly 500 to our population, and a large increase of various lines of business. It will pay to investigate this matter.

—In the death of Mrs. Maria Bartlett, Sunday, April 1st, at Cummington, Mass., was broken another link in the chain which binds one of the oldest New England families with the family of one of the earliest settlers of Dixon. Mrs Bartlett, whose home, until the past few years, has been in Worthington, Mass., was 81 years of age last February, and was a younger sister and next in age to the late Dr. Oliver Everett, who will long be remembered by the earlier born citizens of Dixon, as "the good doctor." Of the original family of fifteen brothers and sisters, there now remains but two, John E. Everett, of Worthington and Mrs. Frances H. Dawes, of Cummington, who, by the way, is a sister-in-law of Senator Dawes of Massachusetts.

DEADLOCKED AGAIN

RULE UP TO MAKE MEMBERS VOTE.

Ten Dollars Fine for Each Refusal the Salient Provision Therein—Gotten Before the House After a Sharp Fight and That Achievement Followed by Another That Lasts All Day—All the Big Guns Engaged in the Battle.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Democratic managers of the house decided that the time had come when some method should be adopted to force the Republicans to participate in the legislation. Throughout the last congress and during the recent congress the Republicans have on frequent occasions deadlocked the house for days by refusing the answer to their names, thus breaking a quorum. As there was no rule to compel them to vote, and as the speaker declined to adopt Reed's expedient of counting a quorum without the authorization of a rule—which rule he would if neccessity oppose in the committee of rules, of which he is a member, and in the house for one sufficient reason of no other. that he had been one of the fiercest denouncers of Reed when he applied it—the house was constantly at the mercy of the minority with Reed continually remarking in effect: "Didn't I tell you so?"

Had to Adopt Some Method.

Many plans have been offered by different Democrats, and there was no inconsiderable number of them who favored a rule which would empower the speaker or clerk to record as "present but not voting" the Republicans who declined to respond to their names. Reed himself has been constantly fighting to force the speaker to adopt the quorum-counting device of which he was the author, and has frequently twitted Crisp with the question: "Why don't you count us?" For the last few days, however, the Republicans have blocked business and there was a widespread belief on the Democratic side that this was in pursuance of a preconcerted arrangement with the Republicans at the senate end of the Capitol to delay all business with a view of postponing action on the tariff bill. It was intimated that a quorum would hereafter be demanded not only on partisan measures, but on the routine business of the house.

Concluded to Fine Non-Voters.

Under such a stress of circumstances Speaker Crisp, Catchings, and Outhwaite, comprising the Democratic end of the committee on rules, decided that the time had come to act. A resolution embodying a new rule designed to fine members $10 for refusing to vote was prepared and presented when the house met. The Democrats were by no means unanimous in their approval of it. While the general sentiment of the house favored some modification of the rule to accomplish the purpose desired a wide difference of opinion existed as what that modification should be. Some of them, like Cockran, preferred an out-and-out quorum-counting rule on the line of the amendment to the rules offered by Springer; others preferred other schemes.

And So the Fight Began.

And so the fight was begun and the first day's battle ended in victory for the Republicans in spite of the tactics of the speaker, who swept aside all preliminaries regardless of rules until he got the matter before the house. When the reading of the rule began Reed vainly attempted to interrupt by appeals for recognition on a point of order, but the speaker, with averted head, refused to listen to him, and Reed finding his efforts futile sank down in his chair, Reed was again on his feet when the reading was completed, but the speaker recognized Catchings to demand the previous question. Then he turned to Reed, who said he desired to raise a point of no quorum. When Crisp heard this he refused to heed it.

Quite a Tied Up House.

The motions, counter-motions, points of order and such that followed for an hour or two put the house in a "pretty mess." Parliamentarily speaking it was tied in a double-bow knot. During proceedings to determine who the absentees were under the call of the house, a motion was entertained, and a roll call was had on a motion to excuse Hull. The roll call resulted against excusing Hull. Catchings was recognized to offer a resolution, but before it was read Lacey claimed the floor to move a reconsideration of the vote just taken.

WANTS A LITTLE SALVAGE.

Reed Gets Off a Characteristic Remark—Hutchinson's Reply.

Then Reed contended that the motion to reconsider under the rules took precedence of all motions. "I trust," said he sarcastically, "that out of the wreck of parliamentary worlds some few precedents will be saved." Richardson, who was in the chair at time, directed the clerk to read the resolution, which proved to be a resolution revoking all leaves of absence except on account of sickness and directing the sergeant-at-arms to request the attendance of some absentees by telegraph. Both Reed and Boutelle jumped to their feet when the reading of the resolution was completed and made the point of order that it did not take precedence of a motion to reconsider. Catchings argued that the adoption of his resolution would terminate further proceedings under the call, and must therefore take precedence of a motion to reconsider a vote which was a part of such proceedings.

Reed taunted the Democratic side, with its 100 majority, with being powerless to transact business without smashing every rule of parliamentary law. When he sat down Hutchinson of Texas, evidently smarting under the sting of the ex-speaker's words, declared he was tired of being lectured and lacerated by Reed. As a Democrat when Reed counted a quorum he had agreed with him. A wave of Republican applause greeted this statement. Hutchinson wheeled around and facing his politica. adversaries shouted: "Oh, don't applaud, I shall strike you in the short ribs in a moment."

He went on to explain that he believed in counting a quorum because it appeared to be straightforward business proposition. He endorsed it as a business man, but the rule had been so tyrannically executed, so much vicious legislation had been passed under it, that a liberty loving people had condemned it. Reed had abused a good rule. Reed had crucified it and he objected to the crucifier of the rule claiming to be its father. The debate over the point of order continued for over an hour, the giants on both sides crossing swords. Ex-Speaker Grow, Boutelle, Hooker, Reed, Catchings and others were at various times engaged in the fray.

At the conclusion of the debate Richardson, who was still in the chair, held that while it was competent to enter a motion to reconsider, a previous motion having been made in the form of Catchings' resolution the latter took precedence, but would not prevent the disposal of the motion to reconsider at a subsequent period. He therefore sustained the point of order. This had the effect of making Catchings' resolution the pending question. Lacey appealed from the decision of the chair. Catchings moved to lay the appeal on the table, pending which Pickler moved to adjourn.

The motion to adjourn was lost—157 to 27—and the motion to lay the appeal from the decision of the chair on the table was carried—144 to 24. Pickler then renewed his motion to adjourn. The motion to adjourn was again lost—94 to 146. Reed then attempted to enter a motion to dispense with further proceedings under the call, but the speaker ruled it out of order and the vote was about to recur on the demand for the previous question when Reed again moved to adjourn.

Again the motion to adjourn was lost, and the vote was then taken on the demand for the previous question on the resolution to revoke leaves of absence and telegraph for absentees, and it was ordered —132 to 3. Reed made the point of no quorum. The chair overruled the point of order. Boutelle moved to adjourn. It was lost. The resolution was then adopted without a division, and at 6:30 the house adjourned.

BUTTERWORTH CLOSES HIS TALK.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Major Butterworth closed his effort in behalf of Colonel Breckinridge with a peroration in which he summarized the case and the positions of plaintiff and defendant. He said that the question was not whether William C. P. Breckinridge had violated any ordinance, human or divine; had been guilty of moral turpitude—conduct which would bring upon him condemnation; but whether those two parties had agreed that he was to become her husband and she his wife. To awaken horror before the public there had been a tale that Colonel Breckinridge had led astray a guileless little girl and had led her down the path of nine years of immorality to a marriage contract ruthlessly violated. The jury was to determine whether there had been any such guileless little girl. He denied that the woman came to court to redress a great wrong. No wrong could be redressed in that way.

"For what motive does the desperate woman walk on any stage? She deliberately turned from everything that man or woman could desire and proclaimed her shame. This is the vestibule of a wider stage upon which she desires to enter." It would be said: "Butterworth, you are defending sin," but no: he had a little family of his own, one son who had to fight the battle of life against fearful odds. No, he was defending the standard of womanhood, the virtue of city and of country girls.

He protested against such a standard being raised for virtue. As for his client no one knew through what mire that man had been dragged, and such was the penalty of sin. He did not want the jury carried away by the whisper floating in the air that a verdict for the defendant would be a ratification of his sin. He asked them also not to commend a woman who had borne herself as this plaintiff had; not to elevate her for the degradation of him. Such a verdict would mean to the girls that virtue was but as a cloak to be thrown off or put on. American womanhood should be vindicated by the standard to which wives and mothers must be held.

PEFFER'S IDEA OF TARIFF.

Tax Nothing at All That Is Used by the "Common People."

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Peffer during the third installment of his tariff speech gave the senate on general principles his idea of a tariff. He would relieve the poor of all taxation and put the tax on articles used by the rich, so that the burden of tariff taxation would rest chiefly on those who were best able to bear it. He defended the Coxey Army of the Commonweal and outlined his plan for the amelioration of the condition of the people.

He would insist upon congress passing a bill obliging the president to provide employment for all men and women of the country. It would not be in the way of building good roads, for he thought that a special province of the states, but he would set them to work building a straight double-track railroad from the Atlantic to the Pacific and another from the great lakes to the gulf. Then the dark clouds would roll away and be dissipated as the morning mist.

He went on to argue for a duty on wool and for free sugar, when Gallinger assured him that the people of New England were with him on those two questions, and he thought they were with him on all his reasonable demands. "And whenever we ask anything which you do not want to give, you call us unreasonable?" replied Peffer.

Kyle Wants a Sunday Rest.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Kyle introduced in the senate a bill providing for Sunday rest. It provides that no one shall on Sunday perform any labor or engage in any amusement to the disturbance of others, in any territory, district, vessel, or place subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, and prohibits the transportation of the mails on that day of the week.

Proceedings in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Kyle offered in the senate a constitutional amendment relating to marriage and divorce. The paragraph in the urgent deficiency bill providing for an abstract of the eleventh census was stricken out, and the balance of the day was devoted to the tariff bill, Peffer delivering the third installment of his speech without concluding.

Peffer an Advocate of Strikes.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Peffer in his tariff speech advised the laboring people to strike and continue to strike till they obtained their share of the profits which manufacturers make through the introduction and use of labor-saving machinery. This is the only way, he said, by which they can obtain their rights.

Trial of Ex-Secretary Jochim.

LANSING, Mich., April 13.—The defense in the trial of ex-Secretary Jochim strongly contended that the false election return signed by Jochim could not be a forgery as charged, but that even though false it constitutes a veritable document and did not purport to be signed by any one else, which would have been necessary to constitute a forgery. The objection was overruled.

HE SEIZED A TRAIN.

The Way "General" Kelly Is Coming East.

HIS "ARMY" ADOPTS WAR MEASURES

And the Progress Is "as Orderly as a Sunday School Picnic"—Trainmen Instructed Not to Resist, but a Sidetracking Possible—Omaha Proposes to Quarantine the Whole Crowd—Strike Threatened on the Great Northern.

EVANSTON, Wyo., April 13.—"General" Kelly's army of the commonweal which had encamped on the plains of Utah, eight miles out of Ogden, quietly broke camp at midnight and captured a Union Pacific freight train, made up of box cars en route to the mines. "General" Kelly at once assumed command of the train full of foot-sore and weary crusaders. The engineer and fireman obeyed orders as issued by the commandant, as they had instructions to do from Superintendent Bancroft, of the Mountain division, should one of the trains in his division be captured by the industrial legion. The capture was totally unexpected, although Superintendent Bancroft had predicted that such a movement would very likely take place on the part of "General" Kelly and his gang.

Train Captured in Bold Bandit Style.

The march from Ogden was full of incident and excitement to the hundreds of men who composed the "army." There were plenty of stragglers—men weak from want of food, men with rheumatism, pneumonia, and the countless ills that follow in the wake of starvation and privation. When Uintah was reached the army decided to go in camp for the night, but pickets were put out, and when a freight train came along it was held up in regular "bold bandit" style, the trainmen showing little disposition to question the right of the men to take charge of the train. Camp was at once broken and the men climbed on board the cars, and several of the most trusted of Kelly's lieutenants took places in the cab of the engine, fearful of treachery on the part of the engineer and fireman.

Declined a City's Hospitality.

The army remained at the station here about twenty minutes while engines were being changed and then proceeded eastward. They stopped a few miles east of town and prepared breakfast. The citizens of this town had baked great quantities of bread, intending to feed them here, but as they had one or two carloads of provisions with them they would not partake of the city's hospitality. There are very many good-looking, intelligent men among them and they are all well behaved. They appear to be under excellent discipline.

"Old Glory" Is Their Banner.

The American flag floated from the doors of many of the cars and one of their banners bore the picture of a Chinaman with a pole and basket slung over his shoulder and the words: "Mellican man must go." As the train pulled out one lone musician among them played on the bugle "Marching Through Georgia."

There has been no violence of any kind and all is as orderly as a Sunday school picnic.

The army ought to reach Cheyenne tonight barring mishaps and the sidetracking of the train, which will undoubtedly be attempted on the part of the railroad company.

CONSULTING AT CHEYENNE.

No Interference With the Army There—Coxey's Men at Addison.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 13.—Governor Osborne says no efforts will be made by the state authorities of Wyoming to interfere with the industrial army while it does not violate any law. The train bearing the army will not stop within the limits of any town, and provisions contributed will be sent to the sidings between stations. It is undecided whether to send the army when leaving here east through Nebraska or south through Colorado. "General" Storey, a Cheyenne saloonkeeper, has issued a general order assuming command of the Wyoming division of the industrial army and calls for recruits.

Coxey's Men Have a Hard Time.

ADDISON, Pa., April 13.—The tramp from Chalk Hill to this poiut was one of great suffering for the members of the "Commonweal of Christ." While the storm had abated in a measure the depth of snow on the ground made walking a burden and the stops for rest demanded by man and beast were frequent. There were many mountaineers drawn here to see the commonweal and there is an ugly look abroad. Mountain dew has been flowing like water and the men are in a state for conflict.

Omaha Afraid of Smallpox.

OMAHA, April 13.—The Omaha board of health has made arrangements to quarantine General Kelly's army outside the city and vaccinate every man. Several cases of smallpox have been brought to Omaha by tramps in the last few days.

IN THE COKE REGIONS.

Huns Do Some Marching But No Violence Reported.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 13.—While the strikers have been marching through this section and making big bluffs in the way of threatening demonstrations of strength, they have staid on the safe side, and not a single outbreak of actual violence has been reported. As the authorities sum up the outlook the only ugly feature is the stubborn, ignorant defiance of the Huns. These men are not afraid of Winchesters, and are too ignorant to realize that the resources of law are something to be afraid of.

The strikers are demoralized by the disappearance of Michael Barrett, the newly-elected president of the organization. A warrant is out for his arrest and he is said to be in hiding near Mount Pleasant. There are now but five plants idle out of eighty-six in the region because of the strike, including 1,252 ovens.

A Theatre Boycott Endorsed.

Short Story of Chicago's Lockout.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The lockout of building trades was not so general as was expected, not more than 10,000 men being thrown out of employment. The boss builders claimed that 60,000 employes would be affected, but there was a lack of harmony among the contracters and many did not stop work. The workmen claim that the movement is a complete failure, and many boss builders are of the same opinion. Others say the lockout will become general before the close of the week.

GREAT NORTHERN IN TROUBLE.

Report That a Strike Has Been Ordered on That Road.

HELENA, Mont., April 13.—It is given out here semi-officially in labor circles that promptly at noon today every trainman on the Great Northern from St. Paul to Seattle will quit work, and after that nothing will move on the line of the road but mail cars. The men have received word that the company means to ship in new men. It is believed there will be trouble if new men come. The strike is because of dissatisfaction with the new schedule of wages.

Organizing a Solid Front.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 13.—Officers of every labor organization in Pittsburg have received a secret circular calling for a conference in Philadelphia on April 30 to consider a consolidation of all labor unions in the country in order to present a solid front when demanding concessions from employers and legislators. The circular is signed by Joseph R. Buchanan, of New York, who while not an official of any labor organization claims to be a representative of all and has good backing.

Strike Probable on the Grand Trunk.

TORONTO, Ont., April 13.—A dispatch from Montreal saying that a cable had been received from Sir Henry Tyler ordering a 10 per cent reduction in the wages of all employes of the Grand Trunk railway has caused consternation in the ranks of the men here. If the order be enforced it is not unlikely that a repetition of the great strike of 1876 will take place. The grievance committee of the federation branches is now in session discussing the situation.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT BUFFALO.

The American Glucose Company Plant Burned—Six Men Hurt.

BUFFALO, April 13.—The plant of the American Glucose company burned last night. The loss will be about $1,000,000. The insurance is $585,000. The works of the company consisted of an eleven-story building used for the manufacture of glucose and starch, an eight-story brick building used as a power house and as a place for making the cattle-feeding product; an eight-story brick building used as a refinery and an eight-story store house. In ten minutes from the outbreak of the flames the whole eleven floors were on fire, flames were bursting through the windows and darting through the roof.

There were 125 men at work when the flames broke out and a number of them had to jump for their lives. Four of these were severely hurt—John Young, about the head and face; two Poles, cannot speak English, names unknown. severely injured, one has both legs broken; John Stein, severely burned.

The city market, just across the street, caught fire and five firemen were sent inside to fight the flames. The roof fell in and buried the firemen, and two—John Weber and Louis Schraeder—were badly hurt, Weber possibly fatally. The other three had a few bruises.

By 11 o'clock all the buildings were destroyed, there being nothing left but a few ragged and tottering walls. The works were owned and controlled by C. J. Hamilton, the noted trotting horse man, and his sons.

ATTIRED IN COWBOY GARB.

OMAHA, April 13.—A special to The Bee from Chadron, Neb., says: While Albert Whipple, cashier of the Crawford Banking company, of Crawford, Neb., was alone in the bank a stranger attired in cowboy garb entered and shoving a six-shooter in Whipple's face demanded money. Whipple gave up all the cash on the counter, amounting to about $2,500. The robber then compelled Whippie to enter the vault, and then locked him in, where he was found twenty minutes later by the president.

Two men, one of whom answers to the description given by Whipple of the robber, were noticed riding leisurely out of town a little later. Several parties are out after the robbers, and Sheriffs Handy and Bartlett have just left for Crawford on swift horses. It is thought the robbers connot escape.

FOUND A MAIL THIEF.

A South Bend Mystery on the Eve of Solution.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 13.—Edward Boone, an ex-mail carrier who recently resigned, has been arrested and arraigned on a charge of robbing the United States mails. But for an accident it is likely he never would have been discovered and that the robbing of mails which has been in progress since last July would never have come to light. Boone recently moved.

The owner of the vacated house found a letter and money order to the county treasurer on a shelf. On the strength of this Boone was arrested. It is believed that he may implicate others and clear up the robberies which have mystified the government inspectors for so many months.

Breckinridge Is in the Race.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 13.—A letter to a personal friend in this city has been received from Colonel Breckinridge. He says: "I see from statements going around through the papers that in the event of an adverse verdict here I would withdraw from the race for congress. I am in this congressional race to the bitter end. I am not going to be on the defensive, but am going to make an aggressive fight."

Met the Girl's Dad and a Shotgun.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., April 13.—Isaac Johnson shot and killed William Jones at Johnson's home. Johnson is a justice of the peace. Jones was considered too intimate with Johnson's daughter. Johnson ordered him to stay away from his house. Jones went back and met the girl's father there with a shotgun.

Big Shooting Match Arranged.

CHICAGO, April 13.—What promises to be one of the largest shooting tournaments ever held in the country has been arranged by the Prairie Gun club, of Chicago, and the Interstate Manufacturers and Dealers association. The tournament will be held here on May 17, 18 and 19 at the Garfield Park Race track.

Refuses to Try Bonacum.

OMAHA, April 13.—The Bishop Bonacum trial collapsed by the refusal of the archbishop to hear the evidence. An appeal was taken to Satolli. Bonacum is a Roman Catholic bishop who is charged by priests and others with a dozen or so offenses.

Developments of the Parsons Case at Saginaw.

DID HIS WORK BY THE WHOLESALE.

Nearly Half a Million in Negotiable Bonds Taken from the Wells-Stone Company and "Secluded" at Grand Rapids—The Looter Put Under $25,000 Bonds, Which He Cannot Give—Detectives Trace the Boodle—All Recovered.

SAGINAW, Mich., April 13.—The case of Newell B. Parsons, confidential bookkeeper of the Wells-Stone company here, who is charged with taking some thousands of the company's money, and who skipped out, but was brought back, has assumed quite extensive proportions. It had been whispered that Parsons was a greater rascal than appeared on the face of the facts known, but the sensation was immense when a third warrant was issued on the complaint of the company and the culprit was arrested and arraigned.

Had Stolen Nearly Half a Million.

The complaint upon which the warrant was issued and the arrest made put Parsons in the front rank of men who have robbed their employers, although his theft did not net him any profit. It alleged that he had abstracted from the vault of the company railroad bonds payable to bearer to the value of $463,000. These bonds were the property of the firm. Parsons was arraigned on this charge, but his case was adjourned until Monday afternoon and his bail was placed at $25,000, which he was unable to give. Such a huge stael was a sensation for a fact, and the matter is the talk of the town.

Detectives Get on the Track.

Pinkerton and Saginaw detectives ascertained that the bonds were missing several days ago, but kept the matter quiet, at the same time wiring brokers' offices all over the country for traces of the missing articles. The bonds were Cincinnati, Saginaw and Mackinaw gold bearing 5 per cents of $1,000 denominations, payable to the Central Trust company of New York or bearer. Word was received from Grand Rapids that the bonds had been secured in that city, and they have been brought here.

Turned Them Over to an Innocent Friend.

It is ascertained that Parsons gave the bonds to Fred Knight, an acquaintance in Grand Rapids, who in good faith, according to Parsons' directions, deposited them with the Michigan Trust company. Hearing of Parsons' arrest subsequently Knight was about to inform Parsons' employers of the facts when the detectives arrived, having traced the bonds up. The result was that all were recovered.

GENERAL SICKLES AND HIS WIFE.

Partition Proceedings in Court Bring Out a Second Romance.

NEW YORK, April 13.—General Daniel E. Sickles has brought an action in the supreme court for a partition of all the property of his father, George G. Sickles. There are thirty six parcels in the counties of New York, Westchester and Kings. Justice Beach, of the supreme court, made an order for the service in the suit of summons by publication on the general's wife, Carolina G. Sickles, and their daughter Edna, 14 years old. They live in Madrid, and the daughter has never been in this country.

Mrs. Sickles is made a party because of her inchoate right of dower. The share of General Sickles in the property is said to be worth $500,000. It is the second wife of General Sickles, a Spanish woman, who is to be served by publication. The first wife, for whom he shot Barton Keyes, died years ago. There have been no divorce proceedings between General and Mrs. Sickles. She preferred to live in her native country.

Moloney Attacks a Railway.

BENTON, Ills., April 13.—Attorney General Moloney has instituted two suits in our circuit court against the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad company. One is for a mandamus to compel the company to run a passenger train over the Belleville and Eldorado division of its road. The other is a petition for leave to file an information in the nature of a quo warranto. Thoseproceedings grow out of a refusal of the company to comply with an order of the railroad and warehouse commission made last month, requiring a passenger train on this division.

Dire Threat of a Suicide.

CHICAGO, April 13.—John J. J. Carroll, who is supposed to be from Galesburg, Ills., was found dead in bed in his room at 396½ South May street. It is supposed the man committed suicide, as a note found in the room said that he intended to take his life. The note left by Carroll said his wife and seven children had deserted him without cause and he would haunt them night and day.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 13.—The jury in the $40,000 damage case brought by William Fullerton against the Homestake Mining company, has brought in a verdict. It awards Fullerton $23,000 damages. LIFE IN SWAMPOODLE

A REMOTE AND UNROMANTIC REGION OF THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The Government Printing Office and Its Surroundings—The Building Is Shaky, and So Are Its Occupants—Importance of Political Backing—New Public Printer.

The reader who is interested in the art of printing should not neglect to visit the largest printing office in the world the next time he goes to Washington. The place is not very accessible and is out of the itinerary of the average tourist, but it is worth an inspection. The government printing office is situated at the corner of North Capitol and H streets in the heart of that unromantic region known as Swampoodle. The neighborhood is respectable enough, but it is not attractive. There are long rows of red brick dwelling houses of uniform size and ugliness. The streets are not so well shaded as in more favored regions of the national capital, nor are the pavements so clean and regular. Moreover, there is a workaday atmosphere about Swampoodle that contrasts strangely with the general air of laziness and leisure for which Washington is distinguished.

The exterior of the government printing office is not pleasing. It looks like a prison or second class factory. It is a long, rambling, four story structure built of bricks and painted a dirty white. The building will fall down some day. It was condemned 10 years ago and has been regularly inspected and pronounced in a dangerous condition two or three times a year since then. Congress is informed of the situation and has attempted in a feeble, desultory fashion to provide a new building, but has failed to accomplish anything.

In the meantime over 3,000 men and women go to work in this man trap every day, and some morning we shall read of a disaster more terrible and extensive than the Ford's theater horror. But of course nobody will be responsible for it, and a number of vacancies on Uncle Sam's payroll will be created.

On the H street side of the building is the largest single pressroom in the world. There about 100 cylinder presses of various grades are in constant operation, filling the air with the noise of revolving wheels and the rustle of moving paper. By the side of each press, perched upon a high stool, sits a comely young woman languidly "feeding" the sheets of white paper and gazing lackadaisically out of the dingy windows while the bare armed, grimy visaged pressman keeps an eagle eye on the operations of the machines. On the second floor in a long, low, dingy room 300 or 400 compositors are employed. On the floor above is an immense book bindery, perfectly equipped, and in the upper story hundreds of women are engaged in folding and stitching public documents. Printers in detachments are scattered about various parts of the building, and there is a large stereotype department.

Most visitors are startled by the immensity of the government printing office. It exceeds all preconceived impressions, because few people realize Uncle Sam's fondness for rushing into print. That is one of his strongest weaknesses, and he spends between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 a year on his printing office.

Here are printed all the reports of the executive departments, and from this fountain of ink and paper is supplied all the stationery required by the government. But these items are insignificant compared with the work done for congress. Every bill introduced into that body must be printed, and printed promptly, and reprinted every time it is amended. Then the committee reports must be printed, and, most important of all, a verbatim report of every day's proceedings in congress must be molded into type and embalmed in The Congressional Record. This work alone requires the services of hundreds of trained men, and it is performed with a skill and promptness that earn the approbation of all concerned.

Uncle Sam's printers are well paid as wages go nowadays, but most of them are far from happy. Their situations are quite as unstable as the structure in which they are employed, and they are in constant apprehension of dismissal. Many of them grow prematurely gray anticipating the curt notice from the public printer that their "services are no longer required." The government printing office is not under the civil service law, for these men are skilled workmen. Because they are skilled workmen their skill counts for nothing, their politics for everything. Let the printer print never so wisely, let the binder bind never so strongly, if his political "pull" happens to be weak he is marked for the slaughter.

Nervousness among the government printers is a chronic condition, but it becomes acute with every change of administration in the office. Such a change has recently been made by President Cleveland, and now the air in Swampoodle is vibrant with suppressed excitement. Mr. Thomas E. Benedict, the new public printer, has filled that office before, having been appointed by President Cleveland in September, 1886. Mr. Benedict followed the policy of his predecessors and made sweeping changes in the office. When Mr. Harrison became president in 1889, Mr. Benedict was promptly supplanted by F. W. Palmer, ex-postmaster of Chicago, and the office again became a refuge for Republican printers. Now that Mr. Benedict is back in his old chair the development of his policy is regarded with unfeigned interest by the denizens of Swampoodle.

Mr. Benedict is 53 years old and is a native of Warsaw, N. Y. He has published a paper at Ellenville, N. Y., has been a member of the New York assembly and filled the offices of deputy state comptroller and deputy secretary of state. It was in Albany that he formed the friendship with Mr. Cleveland to which his appointment as public printer is attributed.

C. C. HUNT.

Couldn't Stand the Gait.

This good story was told by Comrade T. B. Catherwood in the course of an address delivered before the Confederate Veterans' association at Savannah:

"It had been supposed that southern troops lacked staying qualities, but there was no instance during the war when the Confederate private soldier yielded to panic, save one, on a noted field, which need not be particularized.

"Flying in wild disorder along the road, several Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia regiments became badly mixed up. The stampede was general, and the retreat developed into a rivalry as to which should get away the quickest. An Alabama officer, mounted on a particularly swift charger, was well on toward the head of the fugitive host, but every now and then he would rein up his horse, wheel around in the road, wave his sword aloft and cry out:

"'Men of Georgia! Men of Alabama! Halt, I say! Will no one stand by me?'"

"He repeated this every few minutes, but always made the fastest kind of time between halts. At length, when he was making one of those frantic appeals, 'Will no one stand by me?' a voice from the flying men on foot shouted back to him:

"'Yes, darn you, we'd all try to stand by you if you wouldn't strike such an all fired gait!'"—Blue and Gray.

Stories About Stonewall Jackson.

A letter writer from Rio Grande said of General Taylor after the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca, "We call him old Rough and Ready." No one in the army had ever heard it before, but it struck the popular fancy, it won him tens of thousands of votes for the presidency, and it has gone down to history.

In like manner a letter writer from the field of the first Manassas gave Jackson the cognomen of Stonewall and told a pretty story about General Bee pointing to him and saying, "There stands Jackson like a stone wall." Not only was the tale a sheer fabrication, but the name was the least suited to Jackson, who was ever in motion, swooping like an eagle on his prey. But the name spread like wildfire and has reached the uttermost limits of the globe.

The story of how Jackson told the Yankee gunner at Port Republic to point the other way is very romantic, but is also false. So the pretty incident of his standing sentinel for his weary brigade is touching, but is monstrously absurd and reflects but little credit on Jackson as a soldier. The efficient guarding of a whole brigade in the presence of an enemy requires more than the vigilance of one man, even though that man were Jackson himself. Yet the grotesque story has been often repeated by press and pulpit.—Century Magazine.

Do It!

It has been said that the main difference between insignificant men and great men is energy, which remark being interpreted means: If you've anything to do, do it, and if you haven't anything to do, find something. This is not intended to apply to labor, as conventionally expressed, but means simply the general quality inherent in the individual which makes action necessary to comfort. And it should find expression in the child before the time comes when amalgamation into the great body of workers makes the individual a unit in the great question of labor versus capital, of which so much is written.

In childhood, while the mother is still the motive power of the forces that go to build character, this quality, or the lack of it, begins to show, and then is when the mother can do much toward making her boy either an insignificant man or a great one. —Jenness Miller Monthly.

An Italian's English.

The following is a copy of a circular received by a Dundee shipping firm from a correspondent in Italy As a specimen of a foreigner's English it is of some interest:

DEAR SIR—In consequence of the enormous misfortune of the demise of his own father, Mr. — —, prior of the firm, —, the undersigned, who has been, since long ago, an attorney of the same house, and especially, from late years, energetically co-operated his own father in the disengagement of the affairs connected with the firm itself, came to the determination to continue the same business in his own account, and whose signature will be —. Following his father's example, he intends to carry on business on the same footing as heretofore remained unchanged, and always in the same way of exactness and honesty which has ever been the boast of the house. He has therefore the honor to communicate you his intention, trusting that you will never lessen your confidence to him, but that you will always continue your correspondence and friendship, and favor him with your commands. Faithfully yours,

—Dundee (Scotland) Telegraph.

Renewing Old Acquaintance.

"By the way, you remember Miss Krellinger, whom so many of the boys went wild over, don't you?"

"Yes, and I used to think that she was a girl that deserved a good husband."

"Well, I married her."

"You? You astonish me!"—Chicago Tribune.

Different Circumstances.

"So you married a telephone girl on account of her sweet voice, eh? Are her tones as dulcet as ever?"

"Er—well—they might be if they were at the end of 2,000 or 3,000 feet of wire, as in the old days."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Timely Bit of Advice.

In these times of grip and pneumonia it is of great importance that we should know where to look for a safe and sure remedy. A slight cold may become a serious one, the scarcely noticeable pain in the chest is too often the forerunner of pneumonia. The first cough many lead to consumption (a cough is always dangerous.) Never neglect a cold or cough for even one day, but get at once, as a safe and sure remedy, Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure, which is recommended on all sides. It should be kept in the house regularly to avoid delay when needed. It is sold at all the drug stores d&w

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recomendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Address.....

—We hope the rumor is not true that already one of the business firms that have signed the agreement to close stores and cease trade at eight o'clock p. m. are already violating the contract. If it is true, that firm (no matter who) will find that it is "penny wise and proud foolish." No man devoid of honor can long retain the respectable trade of this community.

—Will D. Hutton and Fred J Lenox, o Palmyra, yesterday afternoon bought and took possession of the W. E. Strong livery business on Third street. Messrs. Hutton & Lenox are two well and favorably known young men. They will add new horses and carriages to the stock, also new energy to the business. THE TELEGRAPH wishes them success. Mr. Strong will remain in our city for a while yet.

—We are glad to have the readers of THE TELEGRAPH take sufficient interest in the paper to send unsolicited items and articles for publication, original or otherwise; but they must remember, that to insure attention, in every instance to sign their name, not necessarily for publication, but for reference; and when the communication is in the form of a riddle or puzzle, it must be accompanied with the answer.

—The Mendota Reporter relates that Saturday a party of boys were snow-balling, and one named Egan became angry on being hit and picking up a piece of iron pyrits, such as is found in coal, threw it with such force as to fell a ten-year-old son of D. M. Burke senseless. The missile struck the lad a little above and behind the right ear, crushing the skull so that a piece of bone the size of a half dollar had to be removed.

—Henry W. Klare, superintendent of the Brosius Sewing Machine and Motor Works is having planted along the street in front of the factory a fine row of elm trees. The elm is a tree of slow growth and an emblem of permanence, and if the company did not contemplate remaining in our city many years they would doubtless have planted some rapidly growing tree, so as to get the benefit of the shade from the foliage in a few years.

—There is always much in knowing how to do a thing. Charles M. Worthington, of Sterling, reports to the Gazette of that city that he has six apple trees that for a great many years had not yielded much more than that many apples annually. Last season he thought he would try a scheme. He purchased a hand suction pump and early in the spring began spraying the trees with a solution of London purple. He kept it up, and when it came harvest time he gathered twenty-six bushels of apples from those six trees. The expense was about $4.50. This is an item with a moral to it.

—The advance agent of Cook & Whitby's European-American Allied Shows visited Dixon yesterday, and made a date for Tuesday, May 15th. It would seem that there remained nothing new to be introduced in ring shows; but this company while retaining all the best features of the circus, and securing the very best talent, has introduced numerous absolutely new and attractive features, which will be more fully explained hereafter, not the least of which is the equestrian lion—the only king of the forest that rides on horseback in an open ring. The race track, by the way, under this company's canvas, is said to be a quarter of a mile in circumferance, and everything else about the show is in similar proportion.

—Otis W. Heberling, whose death we mentioned yesterday, besides his bereaved widow and infant child, leaves two sorrowing sisters, Mrs. Ida Ragan, of Dixon, Ill., and Mrs. Laura Dunn, of Keokuk, Iowa. The deceased was married to Miss Nettie M. Chittendon of Beloit, Wis., Dec. 29, 1892, where they have resided since last September until January 4th, because of poor health, he returned to Dixon for careful treatment. He gradually grew worse until death released him. The departed was a young man of genial disposition, exemplary character and habits and devoted to his parents and friends, a member of, and an active worker in the Episcopal church. The funeral will be held at the residence, 23 East Chamberlin street, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

—The work of Messrs. Finny & Jones on our new city directory is nearly complete, and it is very important that the book when published be as nearly as possible correct. We hope that everyone will take an interest in furnishing that information making it a correct directory of the present whereabouts of every individual within the corporate limits of Dixon. This is the time of year when there are more changes of residence than at any other season, perhaps. Every citizen should take pride in seeing that his present location is properly reported. There have been a good many changes since the gentlemen commenced their canvass. Some of these have been corrected; but we wish that all those who have made a recent change of residence or of business location, not already reported would report the same tomorrow at THE TELEGRAPH office. We should all feel a little pride in this matter.

Political Talk—Our Next Congressman.

L. W. Busbee of the Inter-Ocean, recently canvassed this Congressional district and among the other places visited Dixon. Here are a few extracts from his report of what he learned in his travels:

Is Congressman R. Hitt a legal resident of Illinois.

His father was one of the first settlers in Ogle county, and entered a section of land almost in the centre of that county half a century ago. Bob Hitt was born on that farm, educated at the Mt. Morris academy, not half a mile from the homestead, bought out the other heirs when his father died, built himself a beautiful residence and has owned the land and called it home ever since. He owns it today and for twelve years he has represented the old Sixth district in Congress. By birth, education, work on the old farm, payment of taxes, improvements, and voting, Mr. Hitt has established a very fair claim to a legal residence in Mount Morris.

It is true that he has been away from home for a great many years. In 1858 he was a young stenographer, and reported the Lincoln-Douglass debate. He did it so well that these two Illinois champions more than once waited until Bob Hitt could get his table ready to begin his work. President Lincoln gave the young stenographer a place in Washington, and he remained there until Mr. Washburn was appointed Minister to France, when Bob Hitt went with him as secretary of the legation. In 1881 he was appointed Assistant Secretary of State by Mr. Blaine, and in 1882 he was elected to Congress.

Still there are opponents of Mr. Hitt who every two years, about election time, ask the question as to whether he is a resident of Illinois. They asked it seriously twelve years ago when Congressman Robert Hawk died the very day the Republican convention met in Freeport to renominate him. The convention adjourned for two weeks and then the delegates reassembled and nominated Robert R. Hitt.

Mr. Washburn has represented the district in Congress for twelve years, and made a great record in Washington and a greater record in Paris during the Franco-Prussian war, and Bob Hitt's association with him in the trying experience in France, and the fact that he was a native of Ogle county made his nomination a very simple matter when his name was proposed.

But John C. Garver of Rockford, had the delegates from Winnebago county. They were instructed for him as against Hawk. Some of Mr. Garver's friends raised the question of Bob Hitt's eligibility. The Democrats took it up in the campaign that followed, and they even tried to carry it to Congress and have an investigation.

William R. Morrison was urged to introduce a resolution for an inquiry into Mr. Hitt's eligibility; but asked: "What was his majority?"

"About 5,000," answered the Rockford Democrats.

"Well, that ought to make any man a citizen, and I don't think that any further proof would be necessary," answered Mr. Morrison. He was right as far as the old Galena Congressional district was concerned. That first election to Congress established Bob Hitt's citizenship beyond doubt to the great majority of the people, and his twelve years' work for the district has so confirmed it that every Democrat whogoes down to Washington and meets his Congressman comes home an enthusiastic friend of Bob Hitt.

It is too late to bring up this question now unless men want to be laughed out of countenance, and yet there has been a rumor abroad that Mr. Hitt was to again have opposition for renomination on the ground that he is a "non-resident." I have devoted several days to chasing this rumor through this district, but it is as agile as the "milk sick" and has always been "over in the other counties." In Lee county rumor placed the "organized opposition" in Carroll; in Carroll it was heard of in Jo Daviess; in Jo Daviess it was in Stephenson; in Stephenson it was in Ogle; in Ogle it was in Winnebago. But in Winnebago I find that it has stepped across the Wisconsin line or escaped to some other retreat.

The organized opposition to Congressman Hitt is the most disorganized force I have ever tried to corral for an interview. It does not exist and the report of its existence had its origin in a letter written by Hon. John C. Garver, of Rockford, a few weeks ago, which had a wide publication.

I have talked with scores of Republicans from all parts of the district and I find no difference of opinion as to Mr. Hitt's ability as one of the ablest men in the House. Republicans and Democrats are all proud of his reputation as a statesman whose fame is not confined to his district or his state. Sheriff McNamara, of Stephenson county, was the Democratic candidate against Mr. Hitt six years ago. He says: "Since the district is Republican and must have a Republican congressman, the Democrats prefer to see Mr. Hitt re-elected, because he is a great man and confers distinction on his district. There can be no difference of opinion regarding the ability of Congressman Hitt. He is also a fair man, who will do as much for a Democrat as for a Republican when we go to Washington. He is one of the most experienced men in Congress, and there can be no question about his ability to do more for the district than any new man."

General Smith D. Atkins, of the Freeport Journal, says that the Republicans of Stephenson county will have no other candidate than Hitt. It would be useless for any other man to try to get the delegates from that county, because they are selected at primaries where the people vote directly on their choice for the candidate, and Hitt could carry the county against any other Republican. Ex-Senator Robert Wiles, who represented the Senatorial district, said the same thing

In Ogle county there will be no other name considered. Lee county is a new member of the district and has no opposition to Mr. Hitt. If there should be a new deal Lee county would take a hand and present the name of Hon. S. H. Bethea, of Dixon, who is a young lawyer of ability, popular not only in Lee, but in Ogle and Carroll counties. Mr. Bethea is not a candidate, seeking the nomination, and his friends are not opposing the nomination of Mr. Hitt. They have heard that there would be a new deal, that Winnebago county would try and defeat Hitt, and that all the counties would have candidates. In such a situation they regard it as their right to take a hand in selecting the new candidate, and they would play politics to win, regarding Mr. Bethea as the strongest man in the district who could be named. There is good ground for their claim, for with Mr. Hitt out of the race there is no Republican who could command more followers than Mr. Bethea of Dixon. He was a member of the Legislature in 1882, refused to be a candidate for re-election, devoted himself to his profession, and has become one of the leaders of the bar in the district. He was a delegate to the last national Republican convention. Judge Farrand and Mr. C. H. Hughes, of Dixon, are staunch friends of Bethea and good politicians. They regard him as a coming man, who will succeed Mr. Hitt whenever that gentleman retires. Bethea can have the Lee county delegation if there be any organized attempt to name a new candidate.

But there is little prospect for any development to any of these booms, because Mr. Hitt is the second choice of all the counties, and they would not oppose him, except for their own favorite sons. Had Winnebago county Republicans taken up the suggestion of Mr. Garver to make a fight for a new man there would have been a very interesting contest in the convention with candidates from each county. But the leading Republicans in Rockford refuse to oppose Mr. Hitt or enter the race against him. Mr. Garver admits that he has had no encouragement, and the present indications are that Robert R. Hitt will be renominated by acclamation and be re-elected by the greatest majority ever known in this Republican district

Don't go around looking for a flaw in your neighbor's eye, but keep your own specks well dusted and watch the corners on your own side of the street.

There is nothing more calculated to take the conceit out of a fellow than seeing a crayon portrait of himself by an amateur artist.

Dr. J. C. Hamilton, of Chicago, the veterinary dentist who was here about four weeks ago, will be at Pleasure Park Saturday, April 8th. The beneficial results of his work when last here is so marked in some of the horses treated, a number of our horsemen who did not avail themselves of his services at that time, have joined in requesting him to again come out, his coming visit is in compliance with their request. One of the 3 year-old colts he operated on began to show improvement in flesh after the fourth day, gaining in weight over fifty pounds in two weeks, to say nothing of the great improvement in her driving. The Dr. will examine your horse's mouth without charge and if it is unnecessary to have any work done he will tell you so frankly. 87t2
